GOSSIP OF THE NEW YORK
STAGE AND ON THE ROAD...

"The Virginian" will be in Logan Monday, Nov. 27th. So will Mary Elizabeth Forbes. Miss Forbes is with the Virginian company. Thousands of theatregoers have seen this beautiful portrayal of the Virginian. H. C. Russell, will be seen as Trampas, Mary Elizabeth Forbes as Molly Wood and Frank Conway as Steve. Others in the company of twenty-eight are Elmore Wilton, Harry Holliday, Charles R. Gilbert, and the cowboys.

actress in print and in tint, and yet have not known her. She is the famous Harrison Fisher Girl, and her calendered features now adorn many a home. You can see that Miss Forbes is pretty. Indeed she is more than more times than was ever American girl delineated before. As Molly Wood in "The Virginian" it is said that she is delightful, with a face full of changing expression and her voice clear and well modulated.

"The Virginian"

The dramatization of a widely read novel always commands public interest to an unusual degree, and the presentation of "The Virginian" by Mr. Owen Wister and the LaShelle Virginian Company, at the Thatcher Opera House, Monday, Nov. 27th, is sure to draw a crowded house. In the development of the theme, Mr. Wister has produced a play which deserves to be called the ideal Western comedy drama of America. "The Virginian" shows exactly and is exactly what a comedy should be. The comical incidents and the dry humor of the cowboys are all in gay dialogue, and there is nothing of the highly emotional or burlesque in the love scenes or heavy business. A strong feature of the play is the quiet, winning and strong character of the Virginian. It is a familiar figure to all who know the West. The tall, deliberate cowpuncher, with his dark complexion, his belt and gun, his chaps, his superficial slowness and his substantial good sense, you love him from the start. Another attractive feature is the character of Molly Wood, the dainty little school mistress from Vermont. She is self-willed, energetic, capricious, a little prone to play with the heart of the Virginian, and at times capable of violent outbursts of passionate emotion, as a result of the conflict between love and fear, idolatry of her lover, and natural horror of peril and murder. Trampas who is so thoroughly detestable a character in the novel, is even more so in the dramatization, and although his manner is by no means bloufing, or his style magnificent, his presence leads to the production the necessary excitement and interest. The novel, but this guided Steve is sure to win the sympathy of the audience. All the other

The Rich Mr. Hoggheimer requires 50 people, 2-70 for baggage cars. There are 18 musical numbers. The engagement will be one of the season's biggest theatrical events. It comes to the Thatcher Opera House on December 1st.

characters are well drawn and are sure to please. The LaShelle Virginian Company has spared no expense in giving the theatre-going public a first class production. George Kelly gives a strong, healthy, intelligent Edgar Selwyn sail on Nov. 29 with his wife, Margaret Mayo, to spend the winter in Algiers. His place in his play, "The Arab" will be taken by Robert Edeson, who has found "The Cave Man" not up to requirements.

"The Cave Man," to which Robert Edeson planned his colors at the beginning of the season, has already gone to the storehouse. The New York critics thought it was very cleverly written, good crisp dialogue, had an interesting love story but— Oh what's the use.

David Belasco has purchased much furniture and other old articles from the Carlyle and Braddock houses in Alexandria, Va. Some of his new acquisitions will be used in staging plays of the Colonial period.

Winchell Smith's new drama "The Only Son," another of this season's many failures, closed its brief run at the Gaiety New York Saturday night.

PHOTOPLAYS

This week The Oak has been giving its patrons something especially good in film work. "Foul Play" which held the screen for the first three nights of the week is certainly well worth more than the price of admission. The piece was well staged and splendidly acted, all the characters being well sustained. In accordance with Mr. Horne's statement that he has discarded the singing part of his program one cannot help but seem pleased at the new orchestra innovation, the piano, flute and violin making a most harmonious accompaniment to the pictures presented. Mr. Horne has certainly made a most pleasing change.
